

Abstract lecture The Phoenician Shipwreck off Gozo - the 2016 season

In 2017, the University of Malta conducted another season of underwater operations on the Phoenician Shipwreck off Gozo. An international team of technical divers was used to record this unique site as well as to recover a number of archaeological objects. This presentation covers aspects such as the logistics of the project, diving procedures and the recording processes used this season. Works in progress and some preliminary results from 2016 will be shared via numerous illustrations, 3D work and short videos.